

Team Teaching

The practice of effective team teaching in a second year geography class.

Carol Kiernan: St Paul's Secondary School.

Class Overview

Team teaching was carried out with a second year geography class.

The focus of these lessons was based on interactive, project based learning in which students were able to demonstrate their knowledge of urbanisation in their communities (see project below).

Analysis of the lessons

Following a questionnaire given to students, it was revealed that most students preferred to have two teachers in their classroom(see below).

Additionally, from a teaching perspective , the following benefits were noticed.

- More time to be spent with students.
- A good feedback relationship was built between teachers and teachers and pupils
- Classroom atmosphere and engagement improved.

"I really liked having two teachers in my class"

"I felt really supported"

" I hope we have two teacher in the future"

" It felt a little strange at first having two teachers but in the end I really enjoyed it"

Second Year Geography Project
